CHULA VISTA — A man and woman were arrested Sunday on suspicion of looting after police said they stole items from a Chula Vista city maintenance building at Greg Rogers Park.

Police said a bystander witnessed two people breaking into the building at the Orleander Avenue park, east of Interstate 805, about 7:20 a.m.

As officers pulled up, the burglars ran away, police Lt. Rusty Rea said. They caught up to one man and arrested him. The second suspect was outstanding as of Sunday afternoon.

Police also arrested a woman who the witness said had been with the burglars. She was in a nearby car.

The man and woman were arrested on suspicion of possessing a shotgun that was in the car, burglary and — given the state of emergency in place in response to the coronavirus pandemic — looting.

Rea said city crews keep tools including industrial equipment in the maintenance building, as well as personal items in lockers. He did not know what was stolen.
